Vladislav (a.k.a. Vlad) Andreev

Executive Healthspan Coach | I help founders and senior leaders identify and repair the biological systems that are quietly limiting their performance capacity | O!Sapiens
Barcelona, Catalonia, Spain

Summary

At some point, high performance stops feeling like an asset and starts feeling like a debt. The sleep that used to restore you now leaves you 60% charged. Decisions that used to feel clear now feel effortful. You are still delivering, but the cost of delivery has risen significantly, and you cannot fully explain why. This is not a mindset problem. It is not a discipline problem. It is a biological problem. The nervous system, sleep architecture, and stress physiology that underpin every decision, every leadership act, and every strategic call you make are almost certainly not operating at their actual ceiling. Because nobody in your professional network has ever given you the biological language or the monitoring framework to understand what is happening underneath the performance. This is exactly what I work on. I am Vlad Andreev — Executive Healthspan Coach and founder of O!Sapiens. I built the Sapiens OS framework across 1,000+ hours of research into neuroscience, sleep science, stress physiology, and behavioral psychology. The result is a 10-pillar biological operating system for founders and senior leaders who want to sustain high output without silently destroying the physiological infrastructure that makes it possible. What clients typically experience: → Deeper, more restorative sleep within the first two weeks → Sharper focus and faster, cleaner decisions under pressure → Lower reactivity and irritability — more calm execution → Energy that compounds rather than depletes. My background is not wellness. It is 20+ years of commercial performance — negotiation, P&L management, brand strategy, client service — across Europe and Ex-Soviet Bloc. I understand what it costs to operate at the level you operate at, because I operated at it. The methodology came from trying to understand why the standard toolkit — mindset, habits, time management — could not explain what I was experiencing in my own biology and in the leaders I worked with. If you are a founder or senior executive who suspects that something biological is upstream of the performance patterns you cannot explain — the first step is an 8-minute self-assessment that maps your current state across the Sapiens OS framework. → <https://osapiens.expert/how-i-feel> Or message me directly. No pitch. Just the biology

Experience

O!Sapiens

Executive Coach

March 2025 - Present (1 year 4 months)

European Union

The Performance Reset is a 90-day 1:1 coaching programme for founders and senior executives navigating the hidden costs of high performance.

We work on the biological and behavioural foundations of sustainable output: sleep physiology, stress response, cognitive load management, emotional regulation, and recovery capacity. Not as lifestyle upgrades — as precision performance levers, grounded in research and adapted to real schedules.

Built on 1000+ hours of research across neuroscience, behavioural psychology, and human biology. Delivered through 4 sessions per month, a personalised protocol, and ongoing support between sessions.

Specialisations: Neuroscience-Based Coaching · Sustainable Executive Performance · Cognitive Optimisation · Behaviour Design · Sleep Architecture · Stress Physiology
